The Tao of Gung Ho offers the possibility of transcending your personal limits and of creating powerful teams that have fun working together to achieve the extraordinary. The Tao of Gung Ho is a collection of transformational tools that can be used for self development and the creation of high performance cohesive leadership teams. It is a way working better with yourself and together with others. Learn to recognize and overcome your self imposed limits so you can pursue your purpose in life with passion. See how you can improve the performance of your teams whether at work or in your personal life. This is not a method of positively thinking your way to riches and fame. Don't expect good things to flow your way simply by reading it. It does offer simple tools that work to help you overcome habits, listen more intently, and face problems that have had you by the throat for years. There are also simple tools that are applied to groups and teams to help them work together more effectively to get the results needed to achieve the desired outcomes. Like any tools they work better for you the more you use them. It presents my insights of 40 years of business and more than 60 years of life experience. These tools have helped me overcome addictive behavior, rejuvenate my spirit, and helped me work together with others to perform beyond the predictable.
