

Last Will

Your last will, what will it say? What will it be? If you could have not only a few words spoken to your family, but a last few actions taken after you die, what would you have done? This story makes believe that in a not too distant future, people will resort to having their final wishes respected by Wills, Androids designed for the purposes of fulfilling a last request. Most people will no longer care much for those that have passed on, and so to make sure their last will is honored, the bots will be hired. But not everyone is kind to robots, seeing as how they have taken jobs from people. The Will bot has to not only fulfill your last request, but also do so despite hate for their kind. This makes their jobs harder.
